Tesco replied to the Year 5's letter by naming every child. We have covered the names over here so we can place the letter on our website!

Thank you so much to you all for your letter and wonderful drawings. I must say they are all pantstastic but my favourite two designs are the Species and the Blast-Off Nappies. I think you would all be able to get jobs with our product teams when you are older as they are all amazing designs. I'm sure the space tourists would find them very handy as there are not toilets in space.

We were delighted to learn that our nappies were the most absorbent out of all of the ones you tested. I tested them myself on my daughter Jessica, who also used to have nappy explosions and found them to be the best out of the ones I tried. I'm glad Mrs Dimishky is going to start using them for her baby boy.

I will let our suppliers know that the official testers at Highworth Combined School have found that are nappies can hold over a litre of water. I'm sure they will be delighted with your research.

I hope you all enjoyed your science day and conducting your experiments. I used to like science at school but my favourite subjects were English and P.E.

Many thanks again for your letter and for testing our nappies.

Kind regards,

Amy Graham
