

Viking Loop Patterns

The Vikings often used loop patterns. They looked like a piece of string that was looped under and over itself. Look at the example. Trace the dotted lines to start off the dragon's tail and then finish it yourself, using loops and making the tail look like it is going under and over itself.

